Your Assessment

If at any time you get a "bad feeling" or don't feel comfortable with the home, PLEASE SPEAK UP. Do not be afraid to let us know that you do not approve of the home. Examples of red flags that might make you refuse a home include but are not limited to: children hitting the dog or mistreating the dog, children do not listen to parents and play too roughly with their current dog, a family member seems uninterested or not in agreement as far as getting a new pet, or you see a family engaging in unsafe practices with their current pets.

*

Would you be comfortable leaving your pet in the family's care? In other words, if you had to find a home for your own pet or needed someone to take care of them, would you feel confident leaving them in this home? Think this question over very carefully before answering!

Do you feel this person should be approved or not approved? Why or why not?

*

As you are meeting the applicants and their pets, you can best determine what type of rescue will fit into their home and lifestyle. Please give us your idea of what type of animal would fit best in their home. Please be as specific as possible.
